1. Endeavour Leadership Program overview

The ELP is the Australian Government's two-way mobility for short and long-term study, research and professional development with Australia's priority partner countries. The ELP supports Australia's first National Strategy for International Education 2025 (the Strategy), which sets out a 10-year plan for developing Australia as a global leader in education, training and research, through making transformative partnerships (Pillar 2 of the Strategy), and expanding student, education and training professional and research mobility (Action 6.2 of the Strategy).

The ELP provides opportunities for established and emerging leaders to undertake a global mobility experience, within their study, research or professional field.

Endeavour Leaders will have the opportunity to build enduring international networks, strengthen education and research engagement between Australia and priority countries, and enhance Australia's commercial success and economic prosperity.

The objectives of the ELP are to:

- enhance Australia's reputation for excellence in international education through the continued internationalisation of the education, training and research sectors
- contribute to the implementation of Government policy priorities, by increasing international research and education engagement between Australia and priority countries in key fields of education, research and innovation
- offer high-achieving individuals from Australia and overseas the opportunity to develop their knowledge and expertise and build institution-to-institution connections
- create the next generation of international education and research leaders across a wide variety of professional fields.

The Program's intended outcomes are:

- growth in the number of durable, high-value institutional and individual connections as a result of ELP-funded education, training, research and professional activities
- an increase in the number of high quality research outcomes (including commercialisation and joint publications) resulting from ELP funding
- employability of Endeavour Leaders and resultant contribution to the Australian economy.

The Australian Government has made an initial commitment of $118.9 million over four years for the ELP. Under the 2019 round, approximately $27 million in funding is available to support two-way mobility Leadership Activities. It will support short and long term study, training, research and professional development across a range of sub-categories under the Endeavour Leadership Program, including:

- Australia-ASEAN Leadership award
- Australia-APEC Leadership award
- Australia-Latin America Leadership award
- Asia-Pacific Leadership award
- Global Leadership award

Individual applicants apply according to qualification type and duration. Awards will be allocated following finalisation of the merit list. See Section 1.3 of this Applicant Guide, and Section 8 of the ELP Guidelines, for further information.

1.4 Internship

A unique aspect of the Endeavour Postgraduate (Australians) Leadership category is the opportunity for recipients to undertake an internship (2-12 months, full time).

An internship is defined as 'any paid or unpaid work related to the recipient's field of study undertaken outside of their host organisation or specific research or study group'. Internships can be with a range of organisations within one of the eligible countries. There are many variations on what the internship component might look like, including a paid or unpaid position with a government agency, local company, business or non-government organisation who has, or seeks to develop links between Australia and participating countries.

It is the recipient's responsibility to arrange and confirm their internship, however, they can request support from their home university and their support service provider. Recipients undertaking an internship will need to contact the relevant authority in the host country to determine whether they are entitled to work and to obtain information about visas. Recipients may be eligible to gain credit for the internship if it meets the course requirements. The credit should be negotiated with their course convenor.
